TO BE COMPLETED BY THE NOMINATING MEMBER

Members shall be persons qualified to conduct and to supervise scientific research in psychology or allied sciences. To be eligible for membership, a person must (a) hold the PhD degree or equivalent, (b) have published significant independent research other than the doctoral dissertation, and (c) be actively involved in scientific research in psychology or allied sciences.

Typically, a successful candidate will be at least 2 years post-PhD, will have at least four research publications in refereed journals after the date of the PhD (at least three of which are based on research subsequent to the PhD), will demonstrate clear evidence of independent scholarship, and will be engaged in scientific research.

I have read the above criteria and I certify that the nominee fulfills each of them. I have checked that the attached list of publications meets the specifications described above in 5b. I make the nomination, without qualification, to membership in the Psychonomic Society.
